

Lansing—Is the "power of the press" waning in Michigan? Republicans are inclined to think so. The 1948 election map in Michigan fully vindicated the press. Did not a majority of the voters favor a Republican nominee for President, a Republican nominee for the States Senator, a sub-majority of Republican nominees for Congress, a 23 to 8 Republican majority in the State House and a 61 to 39 majority in the State House of Representatives?

Democrats point gleefully to the Truman upset in the face of pollsters' prediction of a Dewey triumph. And the surprise defeat of Republican Kim Sigler by Democratic Nominee G. Mennen Williams is held up as proof of a declining press.

In both assumptions the power of the newspaper is predicated on a belief that the press influences through the editorial page. Actually such assumption is far off base!

Under the American plan the public wields power at the ballot box by strength of majority action. The people arrive at their decision, wisely or unwisely, as the result of information, right or wrong, as made available through various media of mass communication. Such information appears in the news column, in pamphlets, magazines, on lecture platforms and motion picture newsreels; on the radio air waves; even over the back fence among neighbors.

If there has been any power, it has been the power of the People. This power is derived directly from News.

A free press will continue to report honestly the news as it happens, and the American people will continue to arrive at majority decisions—right or wrong—through their own appraisals of the facts at hand.

A free press will continue to offer personal opinion, qualified and openly presented as editorial expressions of the newspaper editor. The reader has the right to agree or to disagree. He may even write a letter for newspaper publication.

If there is any mandate in the 1948 election, in Michigan or otherwise, it is a mandate for the press to report truthfully, to interpret honestly, and to let the people choose their own path. In the fulfillment of this mission lies the real power of the press.

State Ferries Break 1947 Strait Record

The Michigan State Ferries record of 501,109 vehicles carried across the Straits of Mackinac in the year 1947, was broken November 14, during the annual deer hunter rush, Highway Commissioner Charles M. Ziegler, reports. Traffic during the year 1948 has been running about 10 per cent above 1947, indicating the total of vehicles carried this year will approximate 550,000, with total passengers close to the 1,500,000 mark.

The State Ferries transported 18,849 vehicles across the Straits during the six days preceding the opening of deer hunting season, an increase of 769 above the 1947 mark. It is estimated some 41,000 deer hunters crossed the Straits this year, or about 2,000 more than last year.

Gov. Sigler Praises Seal Sale

The Michigan Tuberculosis Association has been "diligent and active," in its efforts to foster public action against tuberculosis and "to help discover cases while they are still in early stages," declared Governor Kim Sigler in a statement issued this week. The Governor extended "best wishes and wholehearted support to the 1948 Tuberculosis Seal Campaign."

The 41st annual Christmas Seal Sale of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association opened in Grayling on November 22 and will close on Christmas Day.

"The state of Michigan recognizes that tuberculosis is a public health problem, and the control of the disease is an important part of its health plans," the Governor declared. "During the current fiscal year, more than 50 per cent of the total public health appropriation is set aside for tuberculosis control."

The state chief executive pointed out that although Michigan's TB death rate has been reduced nearly three fourths in the past forty years, "tuberculosis still took 1,643 Michigan lives in 1947, more than all other communicable diseases combined."

Commenting the part the Michigan Tuberculosis Association plays in Michigan's fight against tuberculosis, the Governor said that the state Christmas Seal or organization performs "important services in education, research, and prevention" in the war against tuberculosis.

Full text of the Governor's statement follows:

"As the time for the annual sale of tuberculosis seals approaches, I wish to commend the work of the Michigan Tuberculosis Association for the part it plays in Michigan's fight against this disease.

"In the past forty years, Michigan's tuberculosis death rate has been reduced nearly three fourths. Despite this improvement, tuberculosis still took 1,643 lives in Michigan during 1947, more than all other communicable diseases combined.

Kiwanis Club Notes

Max Davenport, City Manager of Grayling was the speaker at Monday night's meeting of the Kiwanis Club of Grayling at the Lone Pine Inn. He was introduced by President-elect Earl Burns, who was in charge of the meeting in the absence of President Art Clough who was ill.

City Manager Davenport discussed the five miles of sewer and water mains which was the city's big project this past summer. With the work accomplished about 120 water and sewer connections have been made this past summer and that many more are expected to be connected next year, Manager Davenport said.

This huge job completed the major sewer and water mains to be laid in the City of Grayling, he explained, and other folks not now served can easily be reached by short spur lines which can be laid rapidly.

The biggest headache in the entire project, the city manager continued, was the terrible condition in which the streets were left following the sewer work.

Music Students Go To Charlevoix

Seven Grayling band students attended a district number two meeting, a rehearsal of bands from Charlevoix, Boyne City, Bellaire, Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Traverse City, which was a preliminary practice for the spring music festival in this district. The band consisted of 65 players, the best players of each high school and played the musical numbers with a high degree of proficiency. After a morning practice at 11, the students had lunch and were back at school at 1 P. M. Each student had an opportunity to place in a tryout of their section. The Grayling students and their placement in the 65 piece band are as follows:

Jack Richardson, Eb tuba, first chair; Ruth Decker, baritone, second chair; Ann Holm, flute, second chair; Joan Bond, flute, third chair; Dick Owen, trombone, third chair; Sue Giegling, clarinet, 10th chair; James Kumpula, clarinet, twelfth chair.

The next meeting will be at East Jordan in January and will again be a practice session. Final plans for the spring festival will be discussed, which will be held in May. Mrs. Richardson and Robert Smith donated their cars to drive the students. Mr. Christian was very proud of the showing made by his band students and hopes that this type of meeting will inspire the band students to continued practice and improvement.

Local Firm Hits 70 Barrel Well

The North Michigan Land and Oil Corporation of Grayling in conjunction with the George Talbot interests of Saginaw now have their first well in the Beaver Creek field under a acidizing treatment. John Bruun, manager of the corporation said today that he believes the well would make 70 barrels a day following the acidizing shot.

The well, the first drilled in this field by the corporation, is located in the center of the W1/2 of SE1/4 of NE1/4 of Section 17, Township 25 North Range 4 West. The location is but a half mile from the Pure Oil Company's discovery well which opened the ever-expanding field a little over a year ago.

At the present time, the field contains 25 producing wells from which flow about 1,000 barrels of oil a day. The estimated income from the field as it stands today is conservatively stated as $100,000 per month. Twenty-seven other wells are being drilled in the field at the present time. Nine of the producing wells of the field are located just over the county line in Kalkaska County.

The North Michigan Land and Oil Corporation have already cleared a site and erected their rigging for their second drilling test. Drilling operations are expected to start on the new location the first of next week, Mr. Bruun said. The location is in Section 16, Township 25 North Range 4 west on a 40 acre plot owned by Beaver Creek Township and under oil lease to the corporation.

A strike on the property will mean at 1/4 royalty direct into the township coffers. The well just drilled in by the local corporation is down 4,311 feet and it is estimated by Mr. Bruun that about 6 feet of pay streak is at the bottom of the nearly mile deep hole.

In the year and a half since the field was started, Mr. Bruun says that conservative estimates place (Continued on Page 10)

Grayling Indies Win 2 Games

The Grayling Independents defeated Lake City team here Tuesday night by a 41 to 15 score and racked up a win over Houghton Lake there last Thursday night by a closer margin of 36 to 27 to move to a 3 won, 1 loss figure in the Mid-State Basketball League. They invade Harrison on December 2 to meet the Harrison team who is tied with West Branch for the league lead with no losses.

Seek Part of Olympic Winter Games For Local Setting

Building Plan For Park Advanced

February 11, 12 and 13 have been selected for the Grayling Winter Sports Carnival, it has been announced by Arthur York, president of the Grayling Winter Sports Park, Inc. This selection will bring the gala week end a few days earlier than last year.

Plans for the winter season and carnival are gradually being brought into shape and further announcements as to what will take place as the 1948-49 winter sports season unfolds will soon be disclosed, President York said today.

One big plan in mind is the possibility of bringing at least part of the Olympic Winter Games to Grayling. Grayling has been considered in the past according to stories published in Detroit papers when the Motor City was making the games. Robert Brooks of Grayling is expected to contact Fred Mathai of Detroit, chairman of the Detroit Committee for the Olympics, in the near future. At the present time, it appears that Detroit is a virtual certainty to play host to the Olympics in 1956 if not in 1952. Finland's invitation precedes Detroit's but there is a possibility that Finland may pass up her turn.

Plans for a new building at the park have been forwarded with estimates being turned in to Willard Cornell, president of the Grayling Sportsmen's Club. One estimate for the building was offered by Melvin Marshall of Grayling and several alternate plans and estimates were offered by Robert Legner of Grayling. Mr. Legner's plans are for construction in his Perma-Log. This is a concrete log construction.

It was also announced that several concessions are available at the park and that bids for their operation should be handed to Robert Brooks who will in turn place them before the committee. Details of the concessions are also available from Mr. Brooks.

Home Extension Club members: Don't forget the Christmas workshop at the Town Hall, November 30. There will be a business meeting at 10:30 and exchanging of Christmas gift ideas before lunch. The potluck lunch is to consist of sandwiches and cakes. In the afternoon Mrs. Virginia Vance, our home demonstration leader, will give us ideas on centerpieces, etc. All ladies are welcome to attend, whether they belong to any extension club or not.

(Too Late for Last Week) Bruce Babbitt was home on a short furlough.

The Grayling basketball squad opened their 1948-49 season on Monday night by dropping the decision to the Gaylord Blue Devils, 27 to 25. Grayling playing its first contest under their newly adopted nickname of Vikings were in charge of the game all the way except for a short time in the initial period and unfortunately as the final whistle blew.

At halftime, the Grayling Norsemen held a slim one point margin 16 to 15. They used a man to man defense but sported two offenses both a single and double pivot attack. The game was lost at the foul line as Grayling completed only 13 out of 33 gratis shots. A shot chart of the game also revealed that missed field goals amounted to very many times the completed ones, Grayling's new coach Bruce Smith said.

Dick Owens led the Grayling attack with 11 points with Jack Trudeau, Jim Feldhauser and Bob Rasmussen each accounting for four points. Max Niederer, the other starter, added a field goal. Others to see action for Grayling in the curtain raising game were John Krage, Jack Richardson, Axel Peterson, Ernie Miller and Dick Laurant.

McArthur led the Blue Devils' attack with 9 points with Kuras adding 6 and Ketter 5. Duffield, Gaylord center scored 3 points and Bolin, a sub counted the field goal in the final minute that defeated Grayling. Coon and Scheur each counted once from the free throw line for the Blue and Gold.

Bob Rasmussen of Grayling and Kuras and Duffield of Gaylord were ejected from the game via Murphy of Roseville, Michigan.

Mr. and Mrs. Jim Lucas of Boyne City spent the week end with the Russell Gilberts at their cabin deer hunting.

Bud Caid is home for the Thanksgiving vacation from the Elkhart University.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Moore had the latter's father, also brother, as guests for the first few days of deer season.

Rev. Elmer and wife of Flint spent Monday and Tuesday guests of the Gilberts, while here enjoying a few days of deer hunting.

Mr. and Mrs. Pat Harwood spent the week in Lovells assisting in the Caid Grocery Store.

Don't forget all are invited to attend both services each Sunday in Lovells chapel. Sunday school at 11 o'clock, and preaching in the evening at 7:30.

The pancake supper which was put on and served last week was well attended, and a nice sum was added to the chapel's treasury. Thanks to all who helped and all who attended.

Both James families occupied their cottages for the first week of deer season.

A good many hunters were in and around Lovells for the first few days of deer season, but not so many were lucky to fill their licenses.

The last dance of the season will be at the Town Hall, Saturday night, November 27th. Come and have a good time.

Mr. and Mrs. Les Reed and Mr. and Mrs. Carl Fosbenden of Tecumseh spent three days last week with Mr. and Mrs. B. C. Gilbert, deer hunting.

The Wm. Spatung were in Midland last week for a few days.

The following original poems give us some sixth graders ideas on deer hunting:

Hunters
The hunters are coming from far and near;
Coming to hunt the graceful deer.
They are coming with guns and packs,
There isn't much their equipment lacks.

Their cars are loaded from seats to trailers,
The hunters include soldiers and sailors,
Some will be lucky, others will not,
Some will be proud of the bears they shot.

The hunters sleep on beds of straw,
In weather some times cold and raw,
They're dressed in woollens, heavy and warm,
It keeps them dry and keeps out storm.

Tommy Lamm, Sixth Grade.
O-o November

Now that November 15th is here,
Every one is hunting deer.
Thousands come from (down below),
All they do is brag and blow.

They brag and brag at end of day,
About the ones that got away.
They are all dressed up in hunting suits,
With red caps and hunting boots.

They tramp through woods and swamps,
And come home tired and full of grumps.

Wake up early and start anew,
Come home dead when day is through.
If some one does get a buck,
They sit around and talk of luck.

And all get enthused and then
Get up early and try again.

Irreplaceable Wildlife

Once, it is reliably estimated, there were 75,000,000 buffalo in the Continental United States. Now only a few pitifully small herds are left.

Audubon, the great painter of the birds of America, saw literally billions of passenger pigeons, one of the most beautiful of game birds, during his travels. The last of them died years ago in a zoo, and the species is extinct.

As all hunters know, the population of ducks, pheasants, quail and the remaining game birds has been decreasing dangerously. The result has been constantly shortened seasons and decreased bag limits.

Once the wildlife resources of a country are destroyed, it may be impossible to bring them back. At best, the process takes many years and enormous sums of money. And this is one phase of the government's electric power and land recovery program which needs far greater public understanding than it has so far received.

Some of the greatest streams in the country have been dammed by the government—at an unknown cost in fish. If the proponents of unlimited socialized-power developments have their way, hardly a watercourse of any size will remain as nature intended it. Again, the vast lakes created by government dams have flooded lands which were once used as resting and feeding areas by migratory game. And, of tremendous importance, the draining of marshes and similar lands has destroyed the nesting grounds of wild fowl—and thus cut deep into this irreplaceable and invaluable living national resource.

The opposition of those who want to conserve wildlife against the indiscriminate development of land and water, at the expense of fish and fowl, is growing fast. And the Federal Government, with its unnecessary and badly administered program of socialized hydro-electric development, is among the worst offenders.

Peninsula Indian fur trade, caused establishment of a French fort at Sault Ste. Marie in 1751.

The fort was built by one of two Frenchmen to whom had been granted 214,000 acres of land in that region, including the spot where Sault Ste. Marie is now, according to Dr. F. Carver Bald, assistant director of the Michigan Historical Collections at the University of Michigan.

The two men were Louis le Gardeur de Repentigny and Captain Louis De Bonne. The fort was built and maintained under the direction of De Repentigny as DeBonne never visited his holdings. During Repentigny's frequent absences in Lower Canada his tenant, Jean Baptiste Cadotte, was in charge.

The French government had granted the land to the men with the request that they build and maintain the fort. Thus the government obtained, at no charge, another foothold in the vast new world of untold riches which later was to become Canada and the United States.

Strategically located at the carrying-place around the rapids between Lakes Superior and Huron, the 110-foot square fort dominated the principal trade route between the upper and lower country. Its convenience soon drew valuable furs from the British trading posts further away.

Construction of the diminutive fort which contained four buildings marked the second time the French had occupied that immediate area. Eighty years earlier on June 14, a French officer standing at the Sault before some 2,000 amazed Indians formally had claimed the entire western country for France.

A French mission also was begun there in 1688. But it had been abandoned in 1689 because the Chippewa Indians, with whom the priests had been most concerned, had practically deserted the area.

The fort was occupied in 1782 by a group of British troops from Mackinac following the capitulation of the French governor of Canada to the British in 1760.

There is a Canadian legend that Cadotte defended the fort against the British detachment until, fatally wounded, he wrapped the French flag around him and heroically expired.

But Cadotte was a practical business man, not a romantic Gascon—he offered no resistance. However, the British occupation was brief as on the night of Dec. 10, 1782 a fire broke out under mysterious circumstances and destroyed all except Cadotte's home, according to Dr. Bald. The British were forced to return to Mackinac.

An so Cadotte was left to himself to carry on his fur trading in the fort's one remaining house which already conveniently belonged to him. But the flames in that December night 188 years ago wrote the final chapter in the history of the Sault Ste. Marie's first fort.

Twenty-five cents of each dollar raised by the American Cancer Society is spent on research.

Television on the Farm

Buck Childs' home has become mighty popular ever since he got that television set—one of the few sets in our town, outside of Andy's Garden Tavern.

Not only do the kids stay home nights, but the neighbors drop in to see whatever's being telecast. And Buck and the missus always make them welcome, with a mellow glass of beer or ale (with cider and cookies for the youngsters).

While I guess everyone admits that television still has far to go, it's not hard to see that it will some day be as much a part of American home and farm life as the temperate glass of beer that Buck serves, and the hospitality that goes with it.

And from where I sit, anything that adds to gracious living in America—brings folks together for temperate, quiet entertainment—is a boon to this home-loving land of ours. (We're thinking of buying a television set ourselves!)

SHORT STORY

Night Trip

By RUTH K. KENT

MAMMA tried to rest her head against the stiff plush seat back. My land, how did a body get any sleep on these trains? Mamma glanced at the girl sharing her seat. She was stylish looking. Papa had found this seat when he put mamma on the train. "She's young. She'll take care of you," he'd whispered.

Mamma needed someone to look after her. This was her first train trip in years, and she wouldn't be going now if Hank hadn't wired that Irene had to go to the hospital. And who would take care of her grandchildren?

She waited for the girl to turn her way. Maybe she was bashful. She hadn't said a word and they'd been riding an hour. Mamma leaned back with a sigh. She was tucked out, and her throat felt funny. Goodness, was she going to have a fainting spell? A drink of water... where was it? She caught the girl's eye. "Do you know where the drinking water is?" mamma asked.

"At the end of the car. Bring me one, too, will you?" Mamma pulled the gold watch from her belt. Eight o'clock. The time when she and papa always had a snack. Mamma brushed at her eyes. Silly to miss the old cook so.

Mamma took the shoe box from her knitting bag. She could feel the girl watching. "Want a sandwich?" mamma smiled. "These are chicken and these home-made liver sausage." The girl reached for the chicken sandwiches, both of them.

Mamma was tired. She twisted sideways and tried the back of the seat again. She tried putting up her arm and leaning her head on it, but the arthritis in her fingers started aching. The girl looked so comfortable and mamma sat back and watched her. Pretty little thing.

MAMMA remembered when Hank was a baby. Big oversized youngster, never would let her cuddle him. She'd always longed for a girl. But the second baby, the one that didn't live was a boy too. And so were the grandchildren.

People were milling about the car and every time the door opened a draft swept over mamma. She looked longingly at the girl, nestled in comfort. As if feeling mamma's eyes on her, the girl yawned. "No. It's too hard."

Mamma looked longingly at the window sill. "You have to share. Now if we could sort of rest on each other..."

The sudden mouth curved into a smile. "All right," the girl said. She hunched up her knees and rested her head against mamma.

"My lands," mamma gasped. But the girl was breathing steadily already.

Mamma looked down at her. She never saw a girl with hair so yellow and eyes so dark. The lines around the red mouth were soft

She looked like a girl to take care of Mamma, Papa thought. Now, the lips full. Mamma looked about cautiously, then slipped a timid arm around the girl. She felt cuddly as a baby. Mamma awakened at daylight.

"Oh my goodness, I'm almost there." She patted her hair and smiled at the girl.

HANK scooped mamma from the train. "Gee, ma..." he kissed her. "The baby's here and Irene's okay." Mamma's eyes were watching the tall girl walk away. Then Hank hustled mamma into the car. "Was it a rotten trip, ma?"

Mamma nodded. "The train was crowded and cold. But I sat with the nicest girl. It is wasn't for her I couldn't of stood the trip. She did..."

so much for me." She squeezed Hank's arm and it was hard and strong. "Another boy, I suppose," she sighed.

Hank shook his head. "Girl this time." And mamma remembered golden hair, a soft cuddly body.

State Adds Virgin Timber

A glimpse into the past, an opportunity to see what Michigan looked like before the coming of the white man, is promised Michigan residents and visitors to the state.

Warren Woods, a 250-acre tract of virgin timber northwest of Three Oaks, Berrien County, will be accepted by the Conservation Department under a long term lease and administered as part of nearby Warren Dunes state park. Proffer of the lease buy the Edward K. Warren Foundation of Three Oaks was accepted by the conservation commission.

The forest area contains some of Michigan's finest hardwoods, with beech, maple, sycamore, elm and tulip predominating. It has remained untouched by axe or fire.

With Hartwick Pines State Park near Grayling and the Porcupine Mountains State Park in the Upper Peninsula, the state now possesses three tracts of virgin timber that present aspects of the "forest primeval."

Commenting on the Foundation's offer to lease Warren Woods to the State, Conservation Director P. J. Hoffmaster said: "The people of Michigan are fortunate because the state has had foresighted and generous citizens who have acquired and preserved such tracts of virgin timber for future generations."

Only administrative details remain to be cleared before the lease is signed.

which were dug to receive the new lines. Clay was added to the street surfaces, but before a mixer which unites the clay with the top 6 inches of sand, could be used heavy rains set in making the work impossible, he added.

A few drying days, the surface was mixed and graded and the streets are beginning to shape up again.

Manager Davenport said. The work is the most extensive ever to be done of the four miles of streets involved and about $1,500 in labor and materials have gone into their rebuilding.

Four of the big obstacles encountered in the digging of the trenches were heavy springs at the south end of Maple Street which made special work necessary and the drilling of a hole through the bridge abutment to handle the sewer line.

The bridge abutment was found to be 30 inches thick and filled with boulders, angle iron and heavy pieces of iron and steel which air hammers failed to touch.

It took two men two weeks of steady drilling to force a hole through the concrete and fill. Another bad condition was the elevation of Vilas Street which was found to be so low near the middle of the block that a fill of three feet was necessary to adequately cover the new lines for protection against the weather conditions. A fill of one foot was necessary on Fig Street also. The total fill ran about 1,500 yards but through Eisenhauer and Blass, contractors, the dirt dug from the widening of US-27 was used and the cost to the city was negligible.

Manager Davenport explained. The estimate on the water project was set some time before work was started and was $21,400 or about $1.75 per foot. The actual cost was $21,863.25 or $2.25 per foot or an overcost of $463.25.

When cast iron pipe could not be found to finish the job with the trenches already open, it was necessary to finish with copper pipe which increased the cost,

Manager Davenport explained but also pointed out that to fill the ditches up again and redig them when cast iron pipe was available would have run the city even more.

The financial picture on the sewer project was about the same, the estimate was $23,600, actual cost was $23,835.90. Cost of the tile jumped nearly $1,700, but a savings of nearly $3,000 was made on the digging but lost again on filling and labor and on the cost of manholes and a lift station.

The estimated cost per foot was $1.37 per foot, the actual cost was $1.28 per foot, City Manager Davenport concluded.

ISRAELI BOMBS . . . This photo, released by the Israeli government, shows the Israeli air force bombing Gaza, seat of the Egyptian-sponsored Arab government for Palestine. Direct hits are being scored on the Gaza marshalling yards where military stores were destroyed. Many of the Israeli pilots have seen service during World War II in the air forces of allied countries. Since this photo was made, the United Nations has succeeded in stopping much of the firing and bombings, although battle still flares from time to time.

SOVIET RECEPTION . . . Russian Ambassador Alexander Panyushkin is all smiles as he greets U. S. Attorney General Tom Clark and Mrs. Clark on their arrival at the Soviet embassy for the reception commemorating the 31st anniversary of the Russian revolution. It was a brilliant affair, featured by the most unpropitious chow. Other important U. S. figures who attended included Henry Wallace, the nation's leading disciple of a soft policy towards Russia, and Dr. Edward U. Condon, director of the American bureau of standards.

the total expenditure by Pure Oil Co., Sun Oil Co., Superior Oil Co., and on the one well by the local firm and others in drilling, rigging, clearing, building tank farms and pipe lines, will run well over two million dollars. He estimates that the field will yield on an average of 3,000 barrels to the acre and will yield in paying amounts for 20 years or better. The oil from the field is a live green fluid with a gravity reading of 43 plus. The refineries like the oil as it is well above average as Michigan oils go.

The large oil companies now engaged in operations in the field are also convinced that the field is to enjoy a long life. It would seem, as the Pure Oil Company is erecting a fairly large office building in the area and many oil field workers' homes have been constructed for some time.

In addition to the 27 producing wells that have been discovered and are now flowing in the Beaver Creek field, the Superior Oil Company has a capped gas well which contains a large volume of gas. The possibility of the drilling in of more gas wells in addition to the discovery of further oil-producing wells.

NAVAL MANEUVERS . . . U. S. naval maneuvers in the North Atlantic included simulated amphibious attacks on Newfoundland's grim and rocky shores by units of the marines clad in special arctic assault gear. Here is the initial phase of a tactical exercise. As a mortar group hits the dirt under the watchful eye of a naval helicopter, the supporting naval vessel maintains a simulated covering fire, theoretically against a heavily defended air base occupied by a major world power. The exercises were the most extensive held since World War II.
